Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamada et al., (JP 07-106640 A). Yamada et al., disclose a thermoelectric cooling unit including an apparatus to remove condensed water comprising a heat exchange unit having hot sink 131/132 equipped with a heat discharging fan 20, and cool sink 121/122; and a thermoelectric element 311/312/321/322 disposed between the hot sink and cool sink; and a condensed water evaporating means 23 for absorbing the the condensed water gathered on the cool sink provided within the heat exchange unit and evaporating the condensed water to the air by the heat of the hot sink. (see 1, 3, 5, and enclosed translation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-14, 19 and 25 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamad et al. Yamada et al., disclose the invention substantially as claimed as stated above except a horizontal partition but includes a vertical partition 14 in Fig. 5. in

Art Unit: 3744

Fig. 2 disclose that the partition member 14 is horizontal. Therefore, it is an obvious design choice of an individual skilled in the art to choose the partition member horizontally of vertically.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 6 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamada et al., in view of Chu et al., (6,705,089). Yamada et al., disclose the invention substantially as claimed as stated above except pipe-shaped cooling fins. Chu et al., teach the use of pipe/tube-shaped cooling fins (see column 7, lines 7-17) in a thermoelectric cooling system for the purpose of transferring heat. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the thermoelectric cooling system of Yamada et al., in view of Chu et al., such that tube-shaped cooling fin could be provided in order to transfer heat.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5, 78, 15, 17-18 and 20-24 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
